1. Executive Summary & Architecture

This document details the architectural design and structural specifications for the AgencyHabits Redesign project. Built from a comprehensive audit of existing assets and structured using modern responsive design methodologies, this specification serves as the blueprint for the static wireframe and presentation workspace.

The workspace enables users to view and interact with all 17 prototype pages, configure viewport dimensions dynamically, review developer annotations, and toggle grids.

Core Technical Stack:

- Structure: HTML5 (Semantic elements: section, aside, nav, article, main, header, footer)
- Styling: Vanilla CSS3 (Custom properties, CSS Grid, Flexbox, responsive transformations)
- Interaction: Vanilla JavaScript ES6 (State management, DOM templates, event registration)

Repository and Deployment Information

- Repository URL: <https://github.com/vladgoldysh-rgb/agencyhabits-wireframe.git>

- Deployment Branch: main

- Host Provider: GitHub Pages (Root deployment, static build actions)

2. Global Presentation & Scaling Mechanics

To ensure that designers and clients can inspect layouts at actual physical widths (Desktop: 1440px, Tablet: 768px, Phone: 375px) without cropping or layout breakages on smaller screens (such as a MacBook Air), a customized 'Framer-Like Canvas Scaler' was implemented.

Mechanic Overview:

1. The canvas container locks its width strictly to the active viewport device state (e.g. 1440px width on desktop).
2. The inner canvas width is compared against the parent viewport's client width.
3. If the available width is less than the target size, a CSS transform (scale) is calculated:
$$\text{scaleFactor} = \text{availableWidth} / \text{targetWidth}$$
4. The transform is applied to the canvas element. To prevent trailing empty scrollable spaces or overlay collapses, the outer wrapper's bounding box is adjusted using:
$$\text{wrapper.style.width} = (\text{targetWidth} * \text{scaleFactor}) + \text{'px'}$$
$$\text{wrapper.style.height} = (\text{canvasHeight} * \text{scaleFactor}) + \text{'px'}$$

Workspace UI Layout:

- Sidebar Navigation: Left-docked list of 17 wireframe pages. Toggles page state and annotations.
- Section Notes: Right-docked annotation index. Displays contextual notes explaining wireframe logic.
- Control Header: Center canvas controls. Toggles annotations, device views, and overlays.

3. Typography & Spacing Specifications

The redesign introduces strict typography and spacing tokens to provide a balanced, modern grid layout across all responsive breakpoints:

1. Section Vertical Padding:

- Desktop View: 120px padding-top / padding-bottom
- Tablet/Phone View: 60px padding-top / padding-bottom (Auto-reset height overrides)

2. Grid Row Gaps:

- Desktop: row-gap: 48px
- Tablet: row-gap: 32px
- Phone: row-gap: 24px

3. Typography Controls:

- Main Headline (.wf-h1): 48px on Desktop, capped at 24px on Phone to prevent clipping and text overlap.
- Secondary Headline (.wf-h2): 32px on Desktop, capped at 20px on Phone.
- Body Copy (.wf-body): 16px font size with 1.6 line-height.

4. Layout Overrides for Mobile Viewports:

- Column Resets: Any inline styling declaring grid columns (e.g. style='grid-column: span 7') is automatically flattened to 'grid-column: 1 / -1 !important' when active inside Tablet or Phone views.
- Section Height Resets: Any height locked inline (e.g. style='height: 820px') is overridden to 'height: auto !important; min-height: 500px !important' to prevent content clipping.

4. Mobile Access Blocker Specifications

At the client's request, access to the wireframe specimen is blocked on physical smartphone browsers to ensure proper viewing quality, while maintaining standard responsive simulation on desktop screens.

Implementation Details:

1. Block Overlay HTML Element:

A full-screen overlay wrapper is added inside index.html as a direct sibling of the main container:

```

    [Desktop]
    <h2>Desktop Only Access</h2>
    Please open this link on a desktop computer or laptop to view the interactive wireframes.

```

2. CSS Query Breakpoint:

The display rule is tied directly to the window width rather than state variables:

```
@media (max-width: 767px) {
  .mobile-block-overlay { display: flex !important; }
}

3. Workspace Device Switcher Compatibility:

Since desktop developers and designers use high-resolution screens (e.g. 1440px wide browsers), changing the canvas state to 'Phone (375px)' scales the inner canvas container without affecting the main window width. Thus, the CSS media query is not triggered, and previewing works correctly.

5. Sitemap & Core Pages Specification

The project maps 17 distinct pages covering the sitemap flow, organized by ID and navigation priority:

1. home - Home Page (Core hub containing sitemaps, podcast players, list teaser, resources)
2. read - Read Page (Articles Listing Hub with category sections and newsletter opt-in)
3. article_template - Article Detail Template (Standard reading layout with hero, headers, TOC, upsells)
4. listen - Listen Page (Podcast Hub featuring latest EP.07, hosts info, Shorts row, subscribe options)
5. episode_template - Episode Detail Template (Individual episode detail, notes, transcript, related reads)
6. gather - Gather Page (Events Hub with Knowledge Share session, Luma embed, past grid, city meetup form)
7. tools - Tools & Downloads (Overview of downloadable checklists, guides, and playbooks)

H1: How to Define Your Agency's ICP (Beyond "B2B SaaS")

[Hero Image placeholder]

Intro paragraph:

"A founder we know got asked at an industry dinner who her agency worked with. 'B2B SaaS,' she said. The person nodded politely and moved on. She realized later that's the same answer given by maybe 200 other agencies at that dinner. It's the answer given by agencies doing branding, agencies doing product strategy, and firms doing paid ads. It means nothing."

Pull quote: "B2B SaaS isn't an ICP. It's the first layer of one. And if that's where your answer stops, the downstream effects show up in every part of your business."

H2: 1. Firmographics

"The easy part. Industry, revenue stage, team size, geography, business model, tech stack. Most agencies we talk to stop here, and most stop too shallow."

H2: 2. Buying Triggers

"Something like 99% of your prospects aren't in market at any given time. The question isn't 'who do we want to reach?' It's 'what pushes them from not-in-market to in-market?'"

H2: 3. Success Definition

"What is the client actually trying to achieve? Not what your agency is good at delivering. What moves the needle for them."

H2: 4. Buying Committee

"Who actually makes the decision? Who owns the budget? Who's the champion pushing internally? Who's the technical gatekeeper whose nod you need?"

H2: 5. Disqualifiers

"This is the Charlie Munger 'invert, always invert' move. The first four dimensions define who you want. This one defines who you won't work with, even if they show up with money."

[Framework Image placeholder]

Closing paragraph:

"Start with your last 10 clients. Take your ICP audit, not a brainstorm. Take your last 10 signed clients. For each one, fill in the five dimensions. Then look at the three or four best ones, the engagements where margins were high, the team was energized, the work generated results."

ABOUT US PAGE

Section 1 - Founder Letter

Hello Agency operator,

We've been in the agency game for nearly two decades, serving clients, building teams, and grinding in the day-to-day of emails, meetings, and deliverables.

We love this game so much that we created a portfolio of agency businesses called Barrel Holdings.

We've been humbled along the way - what works really well for one agency doesn't necessarily translate to another and vice versa.

The only sure thing is that if you keep on experimenting and being disciplined about learning, you eventually find better ways to do things.

So instead of overpromising with a "Scale Your Agency" course, we're pulling back the curtain and letting you get a look at some of the things happening across our agencies.

Most things on this site are free but there are a few items we'll charge for. We think they're worth it, but no pressure to buy anything. Be sure to sign up for our weekly newsletter.

We hope you find a few useful ideas that you'll try in your own firm, and we'd love to hear how things went.

Cheers,

Peter and Sei-Wook

Co-founders, Barrel Holdings

P.S. If you want to sell your agency, go to the Barrel Holdings site to see if you're a fit for what we're looking for and send us a note.

Section 2 - Origin Story

H2: How AgencyHabits Started

Body: Barrel Holdings acquires and grows agency businesses. After nearly two decades running agencies ourselves and watching hundreds of operators face the same challenges, we started AgencyHabits to share what we've learned - without the hype of a "Scale Your Agency" course.

Section 3 - Team

H2: The Team

Peter Kang

Co-founder, Barrel Holdings

Peter has been building and running agencies since 2006. He co-founded Barrel, a digital agency serving CPG and e-commerce brands, and later started Barrel Holdings to acquire and grow agency businesses. He writes and speaks regularly about agency operations, positioning, and business development.

Sei-Wook Kim

Co-founder, Barrel Holdings

Sei-Wook co-founded Barrel alongside Peter and has spent nearly two decades building client relationships and leading agency operations. He brings a deep understanding of how agencies grow, get stuck, and break through to the next level.

CTA Secondary: See How It Works

Sub-copy: No credit card required. Export your audit as PDF.

Problems (left column):

- Can't articulate your differentiation in a compelling way
- Take on clients who aren't ideal fits because positioning isn't clear
- Team members can't consistently explain what you do
- Website and pitch deck say different things
- Know you need clearer focus but can't find time for strategy
- Started positioning exercises but never finished them

Solutions (right column):

- Clear positioning statement your team can actually use
- ICP defined - know exactly who to pursue and who to avoid
- Shared language for your whole team
- One source of truth for all your messaging
- Strategy done automatically - no time investment needed
- A finished audit, not another abandoned exercise

Four dimensions: Positioning | Ecosystem | Ideal Customer | Service Offering

How It Works:

1. Paste Your Website URL - We scan your site to find positioning signals, client patterns, and proof points. Takes about 30 seconds.

2. AI Analyzes Your Positioning - Our AI reads between the lines of your website to identify your category, wedge, ICP, and service model. No questionnaire required.

3. Get Your Positioning Audit - Review your complete positioning framework, edit anything, and export a polished PDF to share with your team.

Stats:

~60 seconds | $10K+ value | 4 key dimensions | Hundreds of audits run

Testimonials:

[Placeholder - to be provided by client]

"This is the clearest my positioning has ever been. I had it done in under two minutes." - Agency Owner

"We used this to prep for a pitch and it changed how we talked about ourselves." - Founder

7. Appendices - Key Technical Code Snippets

Appendix A: Framer-Like Viewport Scaling Handler (JavaScript)

function updateCanvasScale() {
  const viewport = document.getElementById('canvas-viewport');
  const wrapper = document.getElementById('canvas-scale-wrapper');
  const canvas = document.getElementById('wireframe-canvas');
  if (!viewport || !wrapper || !canvas) return;

  // Clear temporary styles to let browser calculate offsetHeight canvas.style.transform = 'none';
  wrapper.style.width = '';
  wrapper.style.height = '';

  const device = STATE.deviceView || 'desktop';
  let targetWidth = 1440;
  if (device === 'tablet') targetWidth = 768;
  if (device === 'phone') targetWidth = 375;

  const padding = 80; // 40px left + 40px right padding
  const availableWidth = Math.max(320, viewport.clientWidth - padding);

  let scale = 1;
  if (availableWidth < targetWidth) {
    scale = availableWidth / targetWidth;
  }

  // Set CSS transform scale and wrapper sizes canvas.style.transform = `scale(${scale})`;
  const canvasHeight = canvas.offsetHeight;
  wrapper.style.width = `${targetWidth * scale}px`;
  wrapper.style.height = `${canvasHeight * scale}px`;
}

window.addEventListener('DOMContentLoaded', () => {
  renderActivePage();
  updateCanvasScale();
  window.addEventListener('resize', updateCanvasScale);
});
